August 2015

Kevin's Corner

Last month, I wrote that I hoped to update you on the ever increasing (read: outrageous) cost to construct local roads and freeway lanes in our state and our county – but Mother Nature intervened with something else that fell out of the sky and into my lap - so to speak. As many of you recently learned, a crucial bridge on the I-10 freeway recently collapsed during an extreme rain storm in our desert. What did not receive much media coverage was the significant damage the storm did to other Riverside County roads and communities. One of the First District communities hit with an extreme downpour was the rural community of Good Hope located between Lake Elsinore and Perris.

The high intensity storm cell that hit the area caused flood waters to tear across large swaths of the community, uprooting or covering nearly everything in layers of mud and debris. The impact to public roads and private property was significant for a community its size. After the rain stopped and all the fire engines returned back to communities they had come from, the painful job of extended community recovery and clean-up began.

This cycle repeats itself so regularly in Southern California that it is almost a national punchline. Flash floods followed by mudslides followed by earthquakes followed by wildfires, often resulting in severe damage to roads and homes and neighborhoods and requiring significant costs to local governments as they respond to these emergencies.

For a county that spends hundreds of thousands of dollars each year on lobbyists, and even more on seminars, conferences and travel - how much funding would you guess that we have tucked away in an emergency / disaster response fund in order to deal with employee and equipment costs in the aftermath of a local disaster? One Million? Two Million? Five Million? Now remember our county has roughly 2.3 million people (4th largest in the state, 10th largest in the nation) and our total county government budget is roughly $5 Billion, and we live right in a region subject to the entire range of stereotypical California calamities. So how much do we specifically set aside for these inevitable local disaster responses?

Zero.

Nothing.

Each county agency that responds to an emergency disaster with its people and equipment (sheriff, county fire, OES, roads, flood control, building & safety, animal services, to name a few) either cannibalizes their regular operating budgets to pay for it all, or they are all depending on the disaster to qualify for emergency funding from the federal government. If the disaster doesn't reach the federal threshold - the department is pretty much out of luck in seeking reimbursements. Department heads shouldn't have to choose between responding with full resources to a disaster or balancing their budget, and should have that reassurance that they will not be punished for responding when they are needed.

Growing up - many of us were wisely told by our parents or grandparents to save up and have a rainy day fund to get us through tough times. Maybe it's time our county government saved-up an actual Emergency Disaster fund for those really tough times (and quit waiting for Uncle Sam to bail us out).

Respectfully, Kevin Jeffries

Torrential Rains Cause Flooding In Good Hope & Meadowbrook

On July 19th a torrential downpour of rain hit the Good Hope & Meadowbrook areas of District #1. Within minutes, walls of water made their way down hills, roads, through homes, and closed several roads. Thankfully no one was injured and the recovery process has been in gear for sometime now. The clean up is still on going and could potentially take several more weeks to clear all of the water ways and culverts. Below are a few images.

Trees & power lines down on Norma Street, south of Hwy 74.

Water pours over Marie St. even after the rain had stopped.

Cal-Trans working with County Transportation Dept. clear away mud and debris which had crossed Hwy 74 at Theda.

Supervisor Kevin Jeffries views the damage of fallen trees and mud in a culvert being cleaned up by County Transportation.

Supervisor Success Stories

Each month this column will highlight recent successes in Supervisor Jeffries' Office, whether it is assistance for a single citizen dealing with the county bureaucracy, a change in county policy to improve our community, or a promise kept by the Supervisor.

RCRMC Gains Ally In The Fight Against Elder Abuse.

The Elder Abuse Forensic Center (EAFC) was established by the Department of Public Social Services for the purpose of bringing medical, scientific, and investigative expertise to government agencies and medical professionals who serve elderly and disabled adults. The EAFC incorporates and develops evidence-based practices that unravel the complex issues impacting these populations. The desired outcome is to mitigate and prevent abuse, as well as improve quality of life.

The EAFC was missing a crucial partner and in need of a geriatrician who could examine and evaluate victims of suspected elder abuse to determine if their injuries were consistent with an abuse scenario. This information could then be provided to law enforcement and the district attorney for prosecution. With fewer than 7,000 geriatricians nationwide, the task proved daunting.

Supervisor Jeffries was instrumental in forging an agreement with Riverside County Regional Medical Center to bring their geriatrician, Dr. Wael Hamade to the team. Dr. Hamade joins Dr. David Franklin, a neuropsychologist who also consults for the EAFC, making elder abuse investigations and prosecutions in Riverside County a little easier.

County Transportation Continues Moving Forward Paving Roads.

Since being elected in 2012 Supervisor Kevin Jeffries has led the fight to pave as many highly used dirt roads as possible across the District. Although the process is a lengthy and tedious one, progress is moving forward and a number of roads have already been paved.

Below are the next set of local dirt roads which are now being prepared for paving and the communities they are in.

Obsidian Drive - Woodcrest Taft Street (Magnolia to Dallas) - Woodcrest Skylark West (Grand to the mailboxes) - Lakeland Village

County Boards and Commissions Appointee Profile

Woodcrest Municipal Advisory Council (MAC) Gary Jensen, Chair

What does your Council do??

The Woodcrest Municipal Advisory Council (MAC) serves the unincorporated area of Woodcrest in the County. We are an information gathering and sharing board, for the Supervisor's Office.

- Our main concerns are public safety, Law Enforcement, Fire Service, and Code Enforcement.
- Also advocating for paving of roads and providing sidewalks for the safety of student to get to and from school safely.
- Our concern for future residential and commercial development, that they are being planned in such a way as to improve the quality of life in the Woodcrest Area.

We look forward to having you join us at our next meeting September 10th at the Woodcrest Library at 6:00pm, and at our town hall meeting in November.

What interested you in serving on the council?

I have worked and volunteered with nonprofit youth agencies for years, and served on their risk management committees. It is my hope to be able to share with our neighbors what is being planned and being developed in our community to make a better place to live. As a 30 plus years resident of Woodcrest, I have seen a lot of changes to the area, some good and some not. Now having a chance to voice and communicate, along with the members of The Woodcrest Municipal Advisory Council we look forward to sharing what is happening in our community and making it a cleaner and safer place for all to live and raise our families.

Non-Profit of the Month Riverside County Regional Medical Center Foundation

Riverside County Regional Medical Center Foundation was formed in 1989 by a group of community leaders as a non-profit organization dedicated to the mission of Riverside County Regional Medical Center to provide superior, quality health care to residents of Riverside County with a special focus on individuals and populations in need. The Foundation's mission is to support the Medical Center by providing comprehensive and vigorous programs of community awareness and education, public relations, and fundraising activities.

The Foundation raises funds to provide crucial medical equipment for the Child Abuse and Neglect Unit housed at the Medical Center which enables staff to better serve the innocent victims who are treated in this unit. The Foundation also provided funding to establish a mobile health clinic which allows for the expansion of Community Based Clinics throughout the County. The mobile health clinic provides basic health screenings; diagnoses, education, and referrals for chronic health conditions such as diabetes, asthma, and hypertension; treatment for non-acute illnesses; along with medications and immunizations as needed. The Community Based Clinic program addresses a vital need in the community, focused on the underserved population, at no charge to the patient. The Foundation also provides funding for the pharmaceuticals dispensed through the Community Based Clinics.
